A 24-hour grid for a calendar page. The grid is divided into two columns of 12 hours each. The left column represents hours 6-12, and the right column represents hours 12-18. Each hour is marked on the left edge of the grid with a small circle. The grid contains horizontal and vertical dotted lines, creating a grid of cells. In the second column of each 12-hour section, there is a vertical line of small squares, one in each hour cell, which serve as checkboxes for marking tasks.

This activity consists of a grid with two columns of numbers and a series of checkboxes. The left column contains numbers 6 through 12, and the right column contains numbers 12 through 18. Each number is positioned at the intersection of a vertical line and a horizontal dotted line. To the right of each number is a vertical grey bar with a dot at the number's position. Further to the right, there is a square checkbox. The grid is bounded by a solid line on the top, bottom, and sides, and a vertical dotted line separates the two columns.

A grid designed for drawing a clock face. It consists of two vertical columns of numbers on the left and right sides. Each number is positioned on a horizontal dotted line. Small circles are located at the intersection of each number and its corresponding horizontal line. A vertical dotted line runs down the center of the grid, serving as the clock's axis. Small squares are placed on the horizontal dotted lines between the two columns of numbers, providing a guide for the clock's hands.
